Women warned to be on their guard

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

POLICE are stepping up patrols and offering safety advice to residents after a recent spate of attacks on women.

In the latest incident a woman received cuts and bruises after being knocked to the ground and assaulted in Haverhill in the early hours of Saturday morning.

Before that, a woman was subjected to a sexual assault as she walked across the town's recreation ground on December 9.

There were also two incidents of attempts to snatch women's handbags in two weeks. Police are looking at the possibility that they could be linked.

A Suffolk police spokesman said there was no evidence of any link between any of the other crimes.

The spokesman said: "There is nothing to panic about. These things are being investigated and we will step up patrols in vulnerable areas. We ask people to use common sense and not make themselves vulnerable. Stick to busy routes and well-lit areas and walk with others if you can."

"We have personal safety alarms available at the police station and crime prevention officer Bernard Plume is willing to talk to community groups and businesses about personal safety."

The latest incident happened between 1.20 and 1.30am on Saturday when a woman was assaulted as she walked along a path between Ehringshausen Way and Aeroplane Park, Haverhill, behind the new cinema complex. She was knocked to the floor and assaulted but managed to run away. The offender is described as a white male, about 6ft tall and of medium build. He was wearing a khaki hooded jacket with the hood up, a dark-coloured scarf, jeans and black boots.

A happy new year for smiling survivor Sorrel

A year ago, life looked bleak for toddler Sorrel Mason as she prepared to spend months in hospital, waiting for a pioneering bone marrow transplant which was her best chance of survival.

Now she is recovering remarkably well from her major operation. She celebrated her third birthday in December and spent her first Christmas out of hospital, playing with other children, including her 19-month-old sister, Daisy.

Sorrel, who was diagnosed with a rare form of leukaemia 15 months ago, returned home to Great Wratting in June after spending three months at Bristol Royal Children's Hospital. She was in isolation, recuperating from the life-saving transplant operation in which umbilical cord cells from Japan were used because a live donor could not be found. She spent another month in Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, before she was able to return home.

Dad Robert, who donated blood cells to help Sorrel recover and stayed with her in Bristol while her immune system recovered, said his daughter's birthday and Christmas had been a very special time for the family.

Mr Mason said: "She is doing very well. She is running around playing with other kids now, which is the first time she has been able to do that. Our best Christmas present was to have her home with us. We only have to go to Addenbrooke's once a month now, whereas initially it was three times a week.

"The year is up soon and we have to go back to Bristol for a check-up. She is still not really feeding properly, so she still has to have a tube from her nose, but that is really the only sign that she has been ill.

"For the first year of her life her sister Daisy was like an only child, so it is wonderful to see them playing together now and they are great friends.

"A year ago it was a very worrying and traumatic time for us and we did not know what the future held. It has not all been plain sailing, but in the last few months she has been very well and seems very strong. All the family have been wonderful in supporting us, we could not have coped without them.

"I am back at work now, and hopefully 2008 is going to be a good year for us."

The family were full of praise for the "great support" they received from the National Blood Service and want to encourage anyone who can to become a donor by calling the helpline on (0845) 7711711.

... Jessica Read, below, doesn't think she did anything special, but mum Gill and twin brothers Billy and Freddie, left, are very proud of her actions, which may have saved Roy Webb's life.

Nurse in training gets crash course

TRAINEE nurse Jessica Read has been praised for helping to save the life of an accident victim.

Jessica, 19, only started work as a health care assistant at Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, last November, but did not hesitate to help when a man in his 70s was involved in a collision with a car close to her home at Sturmer Road, Kedington.

Roy Webb received severe head injuries and multiple fractures in the crash near his home on Sunday, December 30, and remains critically ill in hospital.

Jessica was one of the first on the scene after someone knocked on the door of her home.

Modest Jessica does not feel she did anything special, but her proud mum Gill feels her actions saved Mr Webb's life during the 45-minute wait for an ambulance.

Gill, her husband Andy, and twin sons Billy and Freddie, were away in Newcastle at the time, and Jessica was at home with a friend.

Jessica said: "I was just doing my job. I heard a massive bang and when I went outside there was blood everywhere. A policeman came, and we did what we could to help him. He had a huge gash on his head, so I held a towel on it, kept him warm with blankets and stayed with him. The ambulance staff were really thankful for what I had done. It has not put me off nursing at all."

Gill Read said: "I am very proud of her, I think she did really well. She has not been doing the job very long, and it could have put her off, but she is even more keen to do more training now. As Jessica works in the hospital she is keeping a check on the man's condition and hoping he pulls through."

Women asked to stay alert

Police issued an e-fit image of a man who committed a sexual assault on a woman he grabbed from behind on December 9.

She resisted and he ran away.

Two women have also been accosted by men trying to grab their handbags.

The latest incident was at Chalkstone Way, Haverhill, at 6.40am on Tuesday, January 1. A woman was walking along a footpath between Manor Road and Chalkstone Way when a man pulled the strap of her handbag from behind. She turned and kicked out at him and he ran off.

The previous incident was at Hawthorn Road, Haverhill, at 9pm on Tuesday, December 18, when a man attempted to snatch a woman's handbag as she walked at the back of the Focus store. She was pushed to the floor before he left empty handed, leaving the woman shaken but unhurt.

Anyone with information about any of these crimes should call Haverhill police on (01284) 774100.

Site visit planned

COUNCILLORS are to carry out a site inspection to decide whether a cart lodge built without permission can stay.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee has a retrospective planning application for the two-bay cart lodge built next to a bungalow at Mill Road, Hundon.

A letter of objection was received complaining about the "inappropriate" size of the building and claiming that it was being used as a car port.

Despite being recommended to grant conditional permission for the building by planning officers, the committee members did not accept their officers' view there was no adverse impact, and decided to look for themselves.

Governors oppose bid for new upper school

GOVERNORS at Haverhill's two upper schools are opposed to a bid to convert a middle school into a new upper school.

Parents at Clare are campaigning for the change, but governors of both Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College, and Samuel Ward Arts and Technology College are urging families to vote against the plan.

They believe there would not be enough pupils in their area to support it and have asked parents to vote in favour of Option 1 in the Suffolk Schools Reorganisation Review - to close all middle schools in the county.

If that scenario won out the two upper schools in Haverhill would be expanded and work in partnership with existing town and district primary schools.

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The proposal, which is also Suffolk County Council's preferred option, has sparked strong opposition from many parents and teachers, since it would mean that all middle schools in the county would close by 2011.

Parents at Clare want a third option which would mean the town's middle school is converted into a new upper school instead of closing.

Peter Thompson, a governor at Samuel Ward, said he did not believe a third upper school was a viable option as there would not be enough pupils to allow a minimum annual intake of 180 for all three schools in the area.

He said: "You would have something like 130 to 140 each. You would not have the resources available or money per capita to try to run the curriculum and choices you have in the two Haverhill schools."

He added that the local business community also supported Option 1 as the best opportunity for employers to get the well educated and well rounded young people they needed.

Alan Pearson, chairman of governors at Castle Manor, said they were determined to provide the best opportunities for all young people, whatever their background, whether they came from Haverhill, Clare or surrounding villages.

Jenny Alleyne, sponsor governor representing the Co-op at Castle Manor, said: "We have a fantastic foundation here for the future, the opportunities are massive."

The consultation period on the schools review ends on January 18 and more information can be found at www.suffolk.gov.uk/sor

The changes will also affect schools in the Newmarket and Mildenhall areas.

Help at hand for smokers who want to quit

AT LEAST 17,000 people in Suffolk are expected to try to quit smoking this year as a New Year resolution.

National statistics show that people who get specialist support to stop smoking are four times more likely to quit, and the Stop Smoking Service in Suffolk is there to help.

Last year the Stop Smoking Service in Suffolk helped 2,795 people to beat the addiction and in 2008 the service wants to help even more get off cigarettes.

Services available include one-to-one help and group support as well as clinics in the workplace.

There are also clinics in GP surgeries and pharmacies across the county.

Stop smoking medication is available on the NHS through those clinics.

Residents can go online and visit www.suffolkstopsmokingservice.com send an email to suffolk.stop.smoking@ipswichhospital.nhs.uk or alternatively call (0800) 0856037 for more information.

Delight at school's significant strides

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

OFSTED inspectors have praised the "rapid and significant improvement" at a Haverhill school, judged to be unsatisfactory three years ago.

Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College impressed inspectors who visited in December.

Ranking its curriculum as outstanding, they said it had been "thoughtfully and effectively" developed to offer a wide range of choices, including fast-track GCSEs for gifted children.

Inspectors praised the school's leadership for its "very clear direction and an outstanding sense of purpose".

Improved GCSE results, behaviour, attendance and teaching were also recognised. However, the report noted that achievement in maths was falling.

Pastoral care was judged to be "outstanding" and partnership arrangements "exemplary".

In their report the inspectors added: "Well-qualified and committed staff work tirelessly to ensure the best possible life chances for students."

Headteacher Madeleine Vigar said: "I am delighted the inspectors have recognised what our students and staff have achieved over the past three years. These achievements include finding ways to serve a wide range of students, securing good student behaviour, gaining specialist status as a Business and Enterprise College and improving our results.

"I also recognise there are areas where we need to do more, such as mathematics and the way in which we monitor progress."

Alan Pearson, chairman of the school's governors, said:

"This report confirms that Castle Manor is a good school which is getting even better."

"Haverhill can be really proud of the students and the staff who have achieved the rapid improvement described by OFSTED's inspectors."

"Our challenge now is to turn a good school into an outstanding one."

Tribute band to play prison gig

BY Nik Shelton

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A JOHNNY Cash tribute band will be recreating one of the legendary country singer's most famous concerts – at Highpoint Prison near Haverhill this month.

Johnny Cash – known as the Man in Black to his legions of fans – performed at Folsom Prison in California on January 13, 1968, and the recording of the concert is now considered to be a classic.

Tribute band CashBack, who hail from Ely and play regularly around Cambridgeshire and Suffolk, decided they wanted to mark the 40th anniversary of the historic occasion so they approached Highpoint Prison.

Chiefs at the prison – which is home to category C prisoners including some serving life sentences – welcomed the idea and on January 13 the band will be entertaining the inmates with a set of Cash's hits.

For lead singer Lee Gillett, who also swaps between guitar and drums, it will be a big change from the pubs and social clubs they are used to playing.

He said: "They haven't had any concerts at Highpoint for a while and when I suggested it to them they said it was a really good idea. When was the last time you read a positive story about a prison?"

"We're a tribute band so we play Johnny Cash's music but I really do feel like he did about prisons as well. The reason he gave for doing concerts in prisons was that he felt an affinity with those men."

"The job of a prison is to rehabilitate, they are there to get people ready to come out. If you don't show people any compassion when they are in prison then how can you expect them to be compassionate people when they come out?"

During the original concert Cash – who was played by Joaquin Phoenix in the Hollywood biopic Walk the Line – sang one of his first hits, Folsom Prison Blues, and was joined on stage by his wife June Carter Cash, rockabilly legend Carl Perkins and his band, The Tennessee Three.

When CashBack take to the stage Lee will be joined by his brother Mick on guitar and their friend John Drake on bass.

The band will not be paid for the performance.

Mr Gillett, who until recently ran an internet domain firm, explained: "Before we did this we were just a general covers band. We used to play a couple of his songs and we knew he went down well."

"Having decided to do it I started doing the research. I listened to all the records and I read two autobiographies."

"He's a hard singer to emulate and I don't even pretend to be as good as him. It's hard to get the really low notes because he had such a deep voice."

Extra school at town's cost

Sir, I am writing to you as a parent of three children who have been educated in Haverhill's three-tier system. Obviously I was interested to receive a copy of Suffolk County Council's School Organisation Review. The authors of this consultation document state that their aim is to have a "world class education system for Suffolk" and that their vision for children and young people is to "enable all children and young people in Suffolk to aspire to, and achieve, their full potential, giving them the basis for a successful life as active members of the community".

The county council's consultation document lists three options. Like many people, I am undecided which option is best for Haverhill. However, I feel option three, to create three secondary schools, is a proposal that could lead to a significant decline of educational provision in Haverhill. This option provides for the creation of a new secondary school in Clare with a roll of 900 pupils. In view of the relatively small population of Clare this could only be achieved by bussing in pupils from a wide area, including parts of Haverhill and Sudbury. The effect would be to reduce in size the roll numbers for both Samuel Ward and Castle Manor. This would result in a reduction of resources and diversity in educational opportunities for the students of Haverhill. In short, they would be left with two upper schools that would be too small. The result would be to encourage many Haverhill parents (if they had the means) to send their children to Clare. The chances are a disproportionate percentage of able and better-off children would be educated in Clare. The danger is that Haverhill would be left with two "rump" schools. Haverhill is one of the largest growing towns in Suffolk – it deserves better.

I am sure that the citizens of Clare will be mounting a well-resourced and vocal campaign for a new secondary school in their village. However, the fact remains that this option is only viable if it draws in pupils and resources from Haverhill to the detriment of the educational opportunities of the majority of Haverhill young people. Haverhill deserves its place in the vision of a "world class education system". This third option will not deliver it for all the children and young people of Haverhill. If you are a Haverhill parent or anyone concerned with the long-term future of our town, I would urge you to contact the county council and let them know that option three is not acceptable to Haverhill. I understand that copies of the council's "Have your Say" questionnaire are available from Haverhill schools. Alternatively, the questionnaire can be completed online at www.suffolk.gov.uk/sor/haverhill

The consultation period ends on January 18.

Festive drivers heed drink-drive message

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

FEWER drink-drivers took to the roads in Suffolk during the Christmas period than the previous year according to police figures.

During a month-long campaign which began on December 1, officers across Suffolk conducted 3,069 breath tests. Of those, just 94, or 3.06 per cent, were positive. During the 2006 campaign 2,283 tests were carried out with 101, or 4.42 per cent, positive.

Inspector Trevor Sharman, of the roads policing unit, said: "We have breath-tested over 800 more motorists as part of this campaign, which shows our determination to clamp down even further on drinking and driving."

"I am pleased to say that of those that we breath-tested, a small percentage of motorists were found to be over the limit. This is good news – the message is hitting home."

"Disappointingly, there were still 94 people who provided a positive breath test, not only risking their lives, but also the lives of others."

"The fact that they were caught should serve as a warning. If you think you won't get caught, you're wrong. Those who drink-drive will be arrested and will face the consequences."

Fire safety drive is rolled out

A FIRE and rescue service has launched a new team dedicated to reducing fires.

Chief Fire Officer Roy Wilsher has launched the new community safety taskforce, a team of fire specialists who will help promote fire safety using a special vehicle.

Mr Wilsher said: "We're really proud of this new vehicle. It has been designed to be imposing and is emblazoned with messages to catch people's attention and increase safety awareness."

Listed bid

A REVISED listed building application to erect a two-storey dwelling, following demolition of single-storey outbuildings and a boundary wall, with access and parking space at 31 High Street, Clare, has been submitted to St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

Snow White on stage

SEVEN funny little men will appear instead of dwarfs at the Centre Stage Theatre Company's production of Snow White, which opens next Friday.

The show at Haverhill Arts Centre is expected to be a sell-out, as last year's pantomime was, with a total of nine performances being staged to cope with the demand for tickets.

Director David Hart said: "It has built up over the past four to five years and has really taken off now, so that we have to put on extra performances."

"Tickets are selling well for this year, and we expect it to be a sell-out again."

The show features a fun-filled mix of song, dance and slapstick comedy, with plenty of audience participation and jokes with a local theme. IFF is sponsoring the production, enabling pupils from local schools to enjoy performances at their expense.

Amy Letcher takes on the title role, with Paige Naxton as the prince and Nick Keeble as the dame. Laura Bacon provides a fantastic "puppet" cat, Kevin Skilton plays the fool and Denise Claydon appears as the wicked queen.

There will be performances on Friday, January 18, and from Thursday to Saturday, January 24-26, as well as shows at 2pm on Saturday and Sunday, January 19 and 20, 2.30pm on Saturday, January 26 and 6pm on Saturday, January 19. Call (01440) 714140 to book tickets.

Story of lace unfolds at WI meeting

A TALK on the history of lace, by Norma Poole, enthralled members of Haverhill Women's Institute at its latest meeting.

Mrs Poole told many fascinating stories, including feats from a time when it was profitable to smuggle lace into England. One of the methods used was to hide it in coffins, with or without a body.

She explained that after the introduction of man-made fibres, cotton lace was now produced only as a hobby.

Mrs Poole brought along some of the equipment needed to produce lace, and also some of the lace she had made.

Event to advise on affordable housing

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PEOPLE looking to get on to the first step of the housing ladder are to be offered up-to-the-minute advice and options at an event later this month.

The St Edmundsbury Affordable Housing Day will take place from 10am to 6pm on Wednesday, January 16, at the Athenaeum in Bury St Edmunds.

Advice on all the stages of low-cost, shared equity home ownership will be available from a team of staff with housing expertise from St Edmundsbury Borough Council, Suffolk ACRE (Action in Communities in Rural England) and Key Homes East

(the local agent for low-cost home ownership) as well as organisations which provide low-cost rented homes as registered social landlords, and local mortgage advisers.

Last year's event proved such a success that this year's has been expanded to include more agencies, and the hours have been extended to allow people to get to it after work.

The new Home-Link scheme for affordable rented housing, due to be launched in February, will be demonstrated.

Staff will be available to answer questions about how housing register applicants are prioritised and how properties are advertised.

Coun Sara Mildmay-White, St Edmundsbury's cabinet member for housing, said: "We are working on a broad front to offer as many options as possible to people wanting to move into their own home."

"The more information and advice we can pass on, the closer we can get to meeting their needs. The feedback from events such as these is invaluable in helping us, and our partners, to understanding and tackling the issues people face. I would encourage people to come along to the affordable housing day - it will be time well spent."

Cemetery vandals

VANDALS have targeted a cemetery where they smashed plant pots and pushed over a gravestone.

The damage was caused at the cemetery in Withersfield Road, Haverhill, between 4.40pm on Thursday, January 3, and 7.30am the next day. Offenders damaged plant pots and vases at the cemetery, as well as pushing over a gravestone and several benches.

Anyone with information about this incident should call Pc Sarah Reavill at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Group to hold AGM

HAVERHILL Town Twinning Association will be holding its AGM on Monday, January 14, at the Arts Centre, in the High Street. The meeting will start at 7.30pm and all are welcome.

FOR the fourth successive year, the Feast of the Epiphany, the climax of Christmas, was celebrated at the Parish Church of St Peter and St Paul. The service of readings and carols was conducted by the Rector, the Rev John Eley, who voiced a warm welcome to all who had turned out for the service - more than 50 people, which included the "Three Wise Men/Kings" presenting gold, frankincense and myrrh at the crib, performed by children. At the end of the service, Epiphany cakes were served along with sweet wine. In line with tradition in some parts of the world, one of the cakes contained a bean and the person finding the bean was crowned King of the Feast - in this case, Gregory Bush.

'Stop grumbling start governing'

LABOUR members of Suffolk County Council have challenged the Conservatives to deal with the county's issues rather than griping about their funding from Central Government.

Suffolk County Council has been awarded a 7.3 per cent grant increase from Government for next year. The Labour group says this is far higher than most other councils in the country and £10 million more than the county received this year.

Members say that, despite

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

receiving the large increase that they have been asking for, the county council Conservatives are continuing to act irresponsibly by refusing to prepare a budget that will reverse their cuts to services for the most vulnerable and ensure key services are protected.

Instead Labour members argue their opponents choose to spend their time complaining about the Government's funding settlement.

Coun Kevan Lim, the Labour group's deputy leader, said: "The Labour group recognises the many challenges facing Suffolk in recycling, in adult care and in a host of other areas like public transport.

"The Government has given the county a multi-million pound windfall to begin to address these problems and the council should reflect on how best to use this opportunity.

"The Conservative administration should stop moaning about what is a very reasonable funding increase and make certain in its forthcoming budget that it restores the cuts to key services it has already made."

cation centres can be found in Bury St Edmunds, Haverhill, Mildenhall, Newmarket and Sudbury.

Club strike

AN attempt to break into Haverhill Rugby Club in the early hours of the morning was unsuccessful. Offenders attempted to break into the building at School Lane, Haverhill, between 2.55am and 3.25am on Wednesday, January 2, by forcing a door, but no entry was gained. The alarm sounded, and two alarm boxes and a light were smashed. Anyone with information about the incident should call Pc Victoria Anthistle at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100.

Tyres hit

THREE tyres were damaged on a car parked in Haverhill overnight. The damage was caused to a grey Mitsubishi parked in Elm Close, Haverhill between 6pm on Thursday, January 3, and 5.45am the next day. Funding crisis hits free travel scheme

PENSIONERS are being short-changed on the buses yet again after measly government funding left the scheme £1 million short.

Over-60s and the disabled can travel on buses free across the country from April 1, but just £2.2 million of funding has been provided for Cambridgeshire and Peterborough even though £3.1 million is needed to pay for the venture.

District councils must pay for all journeys within their borders no matter where passengers come from.

Cambridge City Council has been hit particularly badly. It will receive just £648,000 this year, despite the large number of tourists likely to take advantage of free travel, compared to the £1,452,000 bosses estimated they need.

Cambridge City Council has already had to find more than £500,000 to plug the shortfall for local free travel, and councillors fear the lack of funding could mean budgets for other essential services could be slashed.

From April 1, the council will have to pay for every bus-pass holder who visits the city.

Coun Sian Reid, executive councillor for climate change and growth, said she was delighted people were using buses, but the Government should have thought the scheme through properly.

She said: "We asked for £1.4 million and we've got £684,000. It's also going to be hard for us to forecast what the service is going to cost us. There's a lot of uncertainty.

"The scheme has very good intentions, but it's tremendously ill-considered. We are spending the best part of £1 million on it now out of an annual budget of £17 million. It's a huge burden on us with inadequate funding from the Government."

Campaign group Cambridge Older People's Enterprise (COPE) said it was ready to fight again to make sure pensioners got the funding needed for free travel.

Robert Boorman, treasurer, said: "COPE has no intention of standing back. The scheme has proved to be hugely successful and a large number of members of COPE, and others, are making use of it."

Cambridgeshire County Council, which does not receive any funding for concessionary bus fares, stepped in last time with £600,000 to stem the funding gap enabling county-wide free travel.

Coun Mac McGuire, lead member for highways and transport, said: "While no local authority is ever happy with the grants they receive, the county council believes Cambridgeshire has been badly short-changed in the settlement outlined by the Department of Transport."

Coun John Seaman, chairman of East Cambridgeshire District Council's environment and transport committee, said: "Time and again it seems that those in London seem to forget that we cannot exist on a shoestring."

South Cambridgeshire District Council will receive £34,000 less than it estimated. A spokeswoman said: "We are very disappointed with the decision to give us less money for concessionary bus fares than we requested."

■ HARD FOUGHT . . . pensioners worked with our sister paper, the Cambridge News on the Buses campaign to get free travel in 2006. Left, inset, MP Andrew Lansley.

Cambridgeshire's MPs are to raise the issue in Parliament.

Jim Paice, who represents South East Cambridgeshire, and Andrew Lansley, MP for South Cambridgeshire, said they were "disappointed" but not surprised the Government had failed to fund the scheme once again.

Mr Paice said: "It's completely unacceptable but only what I would expect, the Government is so completely incompetent and desperately short of cash. Having splashed it out in the early years it is cutting everything left right and centre. What money there is available is being spent in Labour areas, and Cambridgeshire is not one of them."

Mr Lansley said: "It seems from a Government point of view to have been badly managed from start to finish. It only seems to be the work done by John Reynolds and the county council and other councils that made it happen this year at all."

"I'm sure MPs in Cambridgeshire will raise this. We should have in the New Year, early on, a debate about local government funding anyway. I hope to follow it up in that."

A spokesman for the Department of Transport said it did not take authorities' own estimates of the costs of the scheme into account when allocating funding.

He said: "The Government is confident that the £212m to be allocated to local authorities to fund the improved concession is sufficient."

New chief is 'right man for the job'

MARK Lloyd has been welcomed as the new chief executive of Cambridgeshire County Council – despite his appointment being dogged by controversy.

He could have taken legal action against the authority after his initial appointment was bungled by former leader Shona Johnstone. She phoned him the day after he was offered the job last October to express concerns about her ability to work with him.

As a result of the phone call he withdrew his application for the job. News of the development caused a furore in the council, leading to Coun Johnstone's resignation as leader, together with Coun Alan Melton, who chaired the appointments committee.

The committee met again and re-offered the job to Mr Lloyd. Now Mr Lloyd, chief executive of Durham County Council since 2005, has decided he will take the job after all.

When his initial appointment fell through, he was backed by Durham County Council leader Albert Nugent, who said: "Cambridgeshire's loss is County Durham's gain."

Opposition members of

■ TO AND FRO
... but Mark Lloyd is now officially the county council's chief executive at Shire Hall, Cambridge, below.

Cambridgeshire County Council added their support to Mr Lloyd and said they hoped his appointment, to be confirmed this week, would draw a line under the debacle.

Coun David Jenkins, leader of the Liberal Democrat group, said: "He was the right man for the job in the middle of last year and he is still the right man for the job."

Coun Martin Ballard, leader of the Labour group, said: "Mark Lloyd has the talent, commitment and enthusiasm to take on what will undoubtedly be a very challenging role."

When he joins the council in April, Mr Lloyd will have to face a tight budget, cuts to services and the need to improve adult social care. The council will also decide on the controversial issue of congestion charging.

Coun Geoffrey Heathcock, Lib Dem spokesman on health and adult social care, said: "It looks to be a very good appointment from the point of view this chap pulled Durham County Council apart and it's now one of the best performing county councils in the country, and my goodness does Cambridgeshire need to improve."

Mr Lloyd leaves Durham having spearheaded moves to abolish the county's seven district councils in favour of a single unitary authority responsible for everything from rubbish collection to social services.

He joined Durham in 2000 as director of economic development and planning as well as being managing director of the County Durham Development Company. He was made deputy chief executive in 2003.

Under his stewardship the council was judged to be one of the best in the country by the Audit Commission.

Fire centres 'costs spiral'

BY Jack Grove

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

PLANS to scrap local fire control rooms for regional call centres have spiralled to 14 times their original cost, a union has claimed.

The Fire Brigades Union (FBU) claims the Government's plans to close 46 county control rooms in favour of nine super-control centres are three years behind schedule and will now cost £1.4 billion – 14 times the original estimate of £100 million.

The changes would see the creation of a £900,000 East of England control room in Cambridge, to replace the existing call centres in Suffolk, Norfolk, Cambridgeshire, Bedfordshire and Hertfordshire.

Work is due to start at the Cambridge Research Park, off the A10 at Waterbeach, later this year and the centre is due to open in 2011.

But union bosses are calling for the scheme to be scrapped in light of the increased costs.

FBU regional secretary Adrian Clarke said: "This has been a typical Government IT project. It has not been properly researched, proved or costed and we have warned of such costs from the very beginning.

"The Government claimed these call centres will bring savings, but it is obvious they will actually cost the taxpayer even more. The consultants on this scheme must be loving it as they are the only ones who will benefit."

He added: "It's a total ludicrous situation that these regional centres will end up eating millions of pounds of public money when it should be going to improve frontline services.

"Our fear is fire brigades will be squeezed as the Government struggles to cover these rising costs, which will mean fewer fire engines and firefighters."

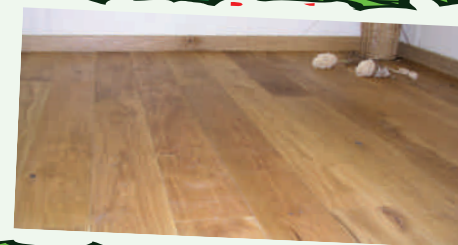

FBU general secretary Matt Wrack added: "The entire UK fire service only costs £1.7 billion a year to run, so this is using up money on a scale the service has never seen before."

The first regional centres in the east Midlands, north-east and south-west are now set to open in October 2009.

But a spokesman for the Department of Communities and Local Government said: "The figures quoted are for different things.

"The £100 million figure was an early estimate for the one-off costs of initial implementation of the fire control project. The £1.4 billion figure is the total forecast of providing emergency call handling and mobilisation control services."

Top names come out to play for another big year

By Nik Shelton

THERE'S another packed year of arts, theatre, music and comedy lined up at venues in Cambridge in 2008.

Whether it's loud guitars, gentle harmonies, heartbreaking drama or a good laugh you're after, there's something for everyone in the coming 12 months. Here's our pick of 10 of the best.

■ Band Competition relaunch: April 10-May 9. The Graduate and Cambridge Corn Exchange

The Cambridge Band competition is always a controversial affair. Reviled by some, supported by others – it's certainly never boring. After several years at The Junction, a bigger and better competition is now being relaunched at the Corn Exchange for the first time in many years.

Rockers, folkies, hip hoppers and everything in between will be thrown into the mix for the four heats which will be held at The Graduate on Mitcham's Corner each Thursday from April 10 to May 3 before the grand finale at the Corn Exchange on May 9.

■ Waterson:Carthy: March 4. The Graduate

There're few English folk acts more respected than Waterson:Carthy. As much a dynasty as a group, Waterson:Carthy features influential traditional guitarist and former Steeleye Span member, Martin Carthy, his wife Norma Waterson and their daughter Eliza Carthy.

■ Gary Numan: March 11. The Junction

For many, Gary Numan typifies the electronic soundscape of the 1980s, although in fact his two biggest hits – Are Friends Electric and Cars – were recorded at the tail end of the 70s. His cold, sparse sound and common themes of alienation were hugely influential on New Wave and New Romantic music in the 80s and later bands such as Nine Inch Nails and Ministry in the 1990s. His latest tour will see him performing his classic 1979 album Replicas in its entirety.

■ Tim Vine: May 22. The Junction

He may be known to many for his hit and miss BBC sitcom, Not Going Out alongside Lee Mack, but Tim Vine is probably the world's best pun writer. A master of one liners and quick fire word play, he holds the current world record for the most number of jokes – 499 – told in an hour.

■ Sugababes: April 8. Cambridge Corn Exchange

The Sugababes may have a line-up as changeable as the British weather but they've racked up some of the biggest chart hits in recent years. They've had 20 singles (six of which have hit number one), five albums and been crowned the most successful UK girl group of the decade.

■ Marti Pellow: April 25. Cambridge Corn Exchange

Glaswegian Marti Pellow first found fame with 80s pop act Wet Wet Wet before fame went to his head and the band crumbled under the pressure of his drug addiction. He later embarked on a solo career and the band eventually put their differences aside for a reunion tour.

His return to mainstream success was sealed when he won the BBC1 show Just the Two of Us alongside actress Hannah Waterman.

■ Cambridge Philharmonic, Mahler's Symphony No 2: June 7. King's College Chapel

There're few pieces of music bigger than Mahler 2 and the Cambridge Phil's director Tim Redmond has got a big job on his hands putting it on in one of the world's most famous chapels.

■ Into the Woods: March 11 -

22. ADC Theatre

The ADC's big spring musical is the Stephen Sondheim modern classic, Into the Woods.

Before Shrek took the concept and ran with it, Into the Woods garnered rave reviews and a shelf full of awards by pilfering Grimm stories to create an entirely new one.

Little Red Riding Hood, Cinderella, Rapunzel, Sleeping Beauty and many other well known names crop up as the tale winds some timeless stories together along with a hugely popular score courtesy of the finest acting and musical talent Cambridge University has to offer.

■ Equus: March 10-15. Cambridge Arts Theatre

Made famous on the West End when Harry Potter star Daniel Radcliffe stripped off to play the lead role of a damaged young man who's dangerously obsessed with horses, this critically-acclaimed play is now on a tour of the UK with a new cast.

Simon Callow stars alongside Alfie Allen in the lead role, an actor recently seen in the film adaptation of Ian McEwan's book Atonement.

■ George's Marvellous Medicine: April 8-12. Cambridge Arts Theatre

This show is shaping up to be one of the children's theatre highlights of 2008. The Birmingham Stage Company has made a name for itself adapting the works of the nation's favourite children's writer Roald Dahl.

Every child knows the story of the young boy George who tries to create a magic potion which has some strange and wonderful side effects.

HAVERHILL WEEKLY NEWS

MOTORING

A great time to buy!

CAR dealers are set to slash £600 million off the price of new vehicles throughout January after being left with a record number of models on their forecourts.

And with a fifth of people in the UK (19 per cent) planning to buy new or used cars for themselves or others in 2008, according to research from BMW Financial Services, this year will see an astonishing 8.6 million car purchases.

Showrooms across the UK are facing an unpredicted surplus of around 400,000 2007 models which they have to shift.

After stocking up early on new '08 styles, insiders say that the biggest stockpile in a decade is creating an unprecedented bidding war between dealerships. Keen to get rid of stock, dealers are forced to enter the January sales market with every other retailer.

This is great news for anyone in the market for a new car as they can now expect huge discounts on the list price of most models from Fiestas to Ferraris.

Some of the expected discounts include:

■ Suzuki Swift Hatchback 1.3 Gl 5dr reduced from £8,383 to £6,863

■ Citroen C4 Picasso Diesel Estate 1.6 hdi 16v LX 5dr reduced from £16,300 to £13,500

■ Fiat Multipla Diesel Estate 1.9 Multijet Dynamic plus 5dr reduced from £17,310 to £13,995

■ Land Rover Discovery Diesel SW 2.7 Td V6 HSE 5dr Auto reduced from £44,885 to £40,442

■ Audi R8 Coupe 4.2 Fsi Quattro 2dr R Tronic reduced from £82,025 to £81,525

Chris Walkinshaw, business development director of Marshall's, said: "We have some strong consumer offers out there and there'll be more to come over the course of the next few days and weeks."

■ OFFER . . . Kia Sedona price at EMG Motor Group is just £15,000.

Kevin Driscoll, general manager at EMG Motor Group, said: "With seven franchises on the site there's deals to be had across the board, with up to £6,000 off the usual prices, in particular on the Mazda range. We have up to £4,000 off the new Mazda6 – for pre-registered and brand new models including estates and hatches in diesel or petrol mode. The RX-8 is down to £18,999 – nearly £6,000 off – or you pay normal price with 0 per cent finance and nil deposit over three years.

"The Fiat 500 is now in the showroom prior to the official launch on January 21, and we're the cheapest dealership in the country for the Kia Sorento and Sedona, with up to £4,500 off. The £15,000 price tag has drawn people here from all over the country!"

Clive Sutton, CEO of the online new car market place Motorati.co.uk that enables dealers to offer vehicles competitively to meet specific vehicle requests by consumers, commented: "This time of year sees car dealers being severely pressurised by manufacturers to take on next year's models, despite still having their current stock to sell. With the stress of shifting all the current stock before they can begin to work towards next year's sales targets, these current year vehicles need to be sold fast – even if it means at rock-bottom prices."

"Surprisingly, even cars such as the Audi R8, which normally command premiums of up to £15k, are being discounted – it's a great time to be a buyer."

■ THE MERCEDES C-CLASS . . . safety boost.

Top C-Class crash marks

THE new Mercedes-Benz C-Class has passed the Euro-NCAP crash tests with flying colours.

The saloon has been awarded the maximum five stars and, according to the crash test organisation, is one of the safest cars on the market.

This result confirms that the C-Class safety concept offers its occupants an extremely high level of protection in an accident.

The body structure has been designed to ensure that the impact forces from a collision are distributed over a wide area so the passenger cell remains largely unscathed.

Mercedes-Benz works towards accident prevention and the various systems on the C-Class that work to prevent a crash are calculated to reduce loads on occupants by up to 40 per cent should an accident occur.

2008 Motorcycle Show is set to be a learning experience

THE legendary MCN London Motorcycle Show has long been a calendar event for dedicated bikers; but with the number of new motorcycle riders soaring in 2007 it seems that more and more people in the UK are getting into biking!

Last year saw a 13 per cent increase in the number of people taking their bike tests – and with the legislation soon to change, it seems that if you're thinking about getting on your bike, now is the time to do it!

Statistics from the MCIA and the DSA show that the number of people taking their bike test has risen to 28,216 in 2007; meaning 3,188 more men and women are getting on two wheels to get around than in 2006. The popularity of riding a bike has also seen registration of motorcycles under the 125cc learner limit increase by 37 per cent when compared to September 2006!

But if you dream of jumping on a bike and riding off into the distance, it would seem there's no time like the present. Bike test legislation is due to change in October 2008 – the MCIA has even been running a "Now's The Time" campaign to encourage people to take the plunge. If you've been contemplating taking up two wheeled transport, then the first thing you need to think about is proper training; that's why BSM will be down at the MCN London Motorcycle Show 2008 to help people learn the basics about biking.

Novice riders who want to "Try'n'Ride" will be able to come down to the show and book a place on the day to try out learner legal bikes under the supervision of a qualified instructor. The idea is to give those who have an ambition to ride a taster session on a motorcycle, and make sure they understand the importance of good instruction.

BSM is also offering those who are already familiar with their motorcycles a chance to take part in one of their Ride Outs. All exhibitors will be given the chance to supply bikes, and visitors will be able to choose one to take out on a 20-minute trial! Riders over the age of 21 will be eligible to take part – but get in quickly, as places go fast!

So, to find out more about getting into biking, get down to the MCN London Motorcycle Show 2008 at ExCeL London from January 31–February 3. The show offers a huge range of trade stands, where new bikers can get good advice and the gear they need, while established riders are sure to pick up a bargain. Those who don't quite have the bottle to get on a bike themselves can check out the Carole Nash Live Action Arena, where specialist stunt riders will be wowing the crowd, and for those that want to be inspired, you can meet some of motorcycling's most famous faces at the MCNLive! stage.

To find out more or to book tickets, call 0870 730 0049 or go to www.londonmotorcycleshow.com

Poor weather: Don't be caught unawares

AS cold and icy temperatures hit the country Zurich Insurance warns motorists to take extra care on the roads as conditions change and can quickly become very dangerous.

The insurers also urge drivers to be wary of opportunist thieves. Frozen windscreens and cold engines are likely to see drivers taking risks as owners leave them unattended, with the engine running as they heat up.

Here are some tips from Zurich on how to prepare for severe weather on the roads:

■ Always check the weather forecast before setting out on a journey, and listen to the advice of the emergency services if they advise against travel.

■ Make sure your mobile phone is fully charged before setting off and make sure you have a high-visibility jacket, water and some food with you.

■ If you do decide your journey is necessary consider the trip and what might happen if the weather worsens. Consider stopping or turning back.

■ Don't leave your car if you warm it up before a journey. Thieves may steal the vehicle and, if the keys are in the ignition and the car is unattended, the policy holder is likely to be uninsured.

■ Keep your windows and lights clean – in poor conditions and at night, any marks on your windows increase glare from oncoming headlights. Dirty headlights dramatically reduce visibility, making slippery roads more dangerous.

■ Make sure your tyres are correctly inflated and have plenty of tread otherwise stopping distances increase, grip worsens and the handling is adversely affected.

■ Ensure that your screen wash is kept topped up and that you use a screen wash-water mixture to ensure that it doesn't freeze in cold weather.

■ Allow greater stopping distances in poor conditions – leave at least a four second gap from the vehicle in front, and increase that in icy conditions.

■ TAKE CARE . . . conditions on the road are dangerous.

Some great new cars to look out for!

■ NISSAN GT-R... high-tech super car capable of keeping up with Ferraris.

IT'S scary to think that we are already in 2008 but, if you think that your life is racing past, just take a look at the car world, writes Chris Lilly. The automotive industry moves at such a pace that nobody can stand still at all.

Take the Ford Focus, for example. It wasn't long ago since the second-generation Focus came on the scene – only two years in fact – but the Blue Oval has redesigned enough of the car to warrant a “new” title, due to be launched this month. This news has been joined by the announcement that Ford are set to release a RS model. The badge was last seen on the first generation Focus and it proved to be one of the quickest cars in its class so expect more of the same.

sellers may be launched this year, but another relaunch will probably steal the Focus' thunder. Granted, it has been 40-odd years since we have seen the numbers “500” on a Fiat but the new model will be officially launched this month. The eagerly-awaited 500 is expected to be a big seller and will challenge Mini in the desirability stakes.

Other models expected to shift in large numbers are the new Mazda6, the Jaguar XF (pictured in the text on the right), Honda's Accord and the Fords Fiesta and Ka. The Mazda is expected to sit in a middle ground between the standard repmobiles and small executive cars, which could be highly profitable. With all the good points of the excellent first model being enhanced and added to, the 6 could well take a decent market share and hit the mainstream making it an important model for the ■ DELTA HPE... Lancia returns to the UK with an air of luxury.

Japanese company. When it comes to key models though, few are more significant than the XF for Jaguar. Replacing the S-Type, which became ever better during its lifespan, is no easy task but the initial signs are very promising. The Honda Accord will be a direct rival to the Mazda6 and should provide some stiff competition, while the Fiesta and Ka are likely to shoot to the top of their respective classes.

There are a host of extremely rapid cars set for 2008. Aston Martin will have a busy year as the DBS, Vantage N400 and DB9 LM are all launched this year. Connaught, a small Welsh manufacturer, will release its Type-D GT Syracuse. A long and complicated name, I know, but worth noting as a hybrid version is planned, thereby creating some fun green motoring. The Bentley Brooklands is set to be highly unavailable this year. Limited to a run of 550 cars, the Brooklands will become the last word in exclusive, high-speed comfort and will be an instant classic on launch.

For those with more slightly realistic bank balances and a need for speed the Audi RS6, Nissan GT-R and BMW M3 saloon all offer practical motoring with the potential for astonishing pace. On the road, these cars will match anything the traditional supercar manufacturers have to offer.

Returning to the real world for now, small cars will have an important part to play in '08. The aforementioned 500, the Vauxhall Agila/Suzuki Splash (same car, different badges), Hyundai i10, VW Polo GTi and Renault Modus and Grand Modus will all make an entrance in the next 12 months.

Moving up a size, the class above is turning green. VW's Golf gets the Bluemotion treatment which improves aerodynamics, loses weight and installs a highly frugal engine. Renault is releasing the Mégane E85 which is capable of running on bio-ethanol, and Volvo's C30 will be getting a similar package to VW's BlueMotion, thereby improving its green credentials.

4x4s are set for another bumper year, with some big players entering the market. Ford and Volkswagen will launch the Kuga and Tiguan respectively. A new Jeep Cherokee will become available, Audi is producing a hybrid version of its Q7 and BMW will bring out the first ever “cross-coupe” – a coupe on stilts basically.

Four wheel drive specialists, Subaru, will start using its boxer diesel engine this spring. Unveiled early in 2007, Subaru's first oil burner will give its model line-up an important string to its bow, first seeing service in the Legacy and Outback and then becoming available in a new Forester in the autumn.

Meanwhile, exciting news for badge fans! Lancia is set to be relaunched in the UK this year. The Fiat-owned marque should end its hiatus about halfway through the year when the legendary Delta name will be revived on these shores. Don't expect it to be the rally-bred performance car it was in the 1980s and '90s. Lancia is now positioned between Fiat and Alfa Romeo in terms of luxury, so it will ride comfortably rather than sportily. This is Lancia though, so it shouldn't disappoint when hustled along!

Another 80s name making a comeback in 2008 is the Scirocco. VW is intending to launch the coupe towards the end of the year, a little later than the Delta. Fans of the coupe in either sporting or luxurious guises will be rubbing their hands with glee.

As I stated in my review of 2007, the coming year has a lot to live up to. There are some stunning designs being scribbled around the world and new technologies are being embraced and developed all the time which bodes very well. The question is: will 2008 see a big step forward in terms of green motoring? We are yet to see and, for all our sakes, I hope it will. With the signals coming out of the car industry, we should be optimistic.

Let's look forward to a cracking year!

■ FORD KUGA... Ford enters the small SUV market with the stylish 4x4. Expect it to be a popular school-run vehicle with good on road manners.

■ DIESEL POWER . . . launched on the little Mazda2 range.

Prices for diesel model Mazda2 out

PRICES for the Mazda2 diesel range of five-door hatchbacks, which will go on sale next March, have been confirmed and will start from £9,499.

Two equipment levels (TS and TS2) will be available each with the excellent level of standard equipment already featured on the Mazda2 petrol models.

New Mazda2 diesel models share the same stylish design features of the petrols that let the small car stand out from the crowd. Both TS and TS2 models will be powered by a newly developed MZ-CD 1.4-litre common-rail turbo diesel engine.

This four cylinder unit is similar to the engine of the outgoing model, but more fuel efficient and with reduced operating costs. It produces 66bhp at 4,000rpm and maximum torque of 118lb ft at a low 2,000rpm for quick throttle response while the gearbox has been retuned to make the most of the diesel engine's characteristics.

"The new Mazda2 diesel has all the attractive and dramatic styling of the petrol models, and offers customers increased fuel economy, reduced CO2 impact and ultra-low road tax of £35 per year," comments Mazda UK's marketing director Mark Cameron.

"It is going to deliver an entertaining driving experience coupled with Mazda's renowned build-quality and reliability."

With generous equipment, good looks, a high mpg figure and low emissions levels, the diesel Mazda2 is likely to prove a hit with customers. Contact EMG Mazda on (01223) 472000 or visit www.emgmotorgroup.com

Accounts Payable Assistants Cambridge Competitive salary + excellent benefits

Napp Pharmaceuticals is part of a worldwide association of independent pharmaceutical companies that have been developing vital new drugs over the past fifty years.

Our Accounts Payable team ensures that purchase order invoices, credit notes and company expenses are properly logged and then processed quickly and efficiently. Due to retirement, we are looking for two Assistants who can work as part of a team and contribute to this work, while also taking responsibility for credit card transactions and filing. You'll receive a competitive salary, contributory pension scheme, non-contractual bonus and private medical care. We also have a subsidised restaurant, parking and a sports and social club. Please send your CV with current salary details to Sarah Blower, Napp Pharmaceuticals Limited, Cambridge Science Park, Milton Road, Cambridge CB4 0GW or email vacancies@napp.co.uk

Closing date for applications: 22 January 2008.

YOUTH FOOTBALL

Sheer effort not enough for Wratting

Balsham Colts U10 8 West Wratting Yellows U10 1

PREMIER DIVISION
THIS local derby was always going to a difficult affair for Wratting, who started the game without their regular goalkeeper. Balsham scored the first goal, which their possession thorough deserved. This spurred the visitors into life and they soon equalised when Charlie Ellam netted a spectacular effort from distance, volleying the ball over the keeper and into the corner of the goal. With the game now looking fairly even, Wratting lost defender Callum Dray and forward Dion Whitrid to injury and illness respectively. This unsettled the side and Balsham took advantage scoring two quick goals to lead 3-1 at half-time. Wratting restarted the game still hoping they could save the game. Scott Bishop worked hard linking defence with attack, while, at the back, Liam Gibbs fought hard. But the second half was a difficult time for Wratting as Balsham scored five more against their depleted opposition. Wratting's men-of-the-match were Charlie Ellam and Liam Gibbs.

Bailey hits back after quick shock

Newmarket Town U10 3 West Wratting U10 Reds 3

CAMBS MINI LEAGUE DIVISION
A FIRST for West Wratting, saw them visit fellow table toppers Newmarket Town, for a lunchtime kick off. With no excuse for still being being sleepy, it was therefore very disappointing for the Reds to concede the opening goal in the first minute. Despite the early setback, Wratting slowly forced their way into the game and found themselves level after eight minutes when a great through ball from Elsom found Bailey free to fire home. Another great passage of play saw a cross come in from Stephen Boyles on the right find Alex Carter, who thundered home a header to put the visitors in front. Back came Newmarket and an excellent corner was headed home to level the scores. The play once again swept to the other end of the field and ace marksman Carter drilled home a left footer from within the penalty area to give the Wratting team a just about deserved half-time lead. The second half kicked off with the football a credit to both teams.

Gunner Forshaw hits target

Grampian Gunners U10 1 Saffron Walden U10A 5

GUNNERS continued to show improvement in their game, despite this defeat. Bailey Cassidy, George Mustoe and Jason Moore were solid in the middle, with man-of-the-match Josh Matthewson having a quality first half in goal. Toby Daly, Mitchell Forshaw and Jamie Lingard had shots well saved with Lingard hitting the post with a stinging drive, Walden however went in 2-0 up at the break. The second half saw Lewis Knightly back in goal and making some impressive saves before Forshaw run through from midfield to score for the Gunners. This was a strong spell and, at 2-1, Grampian went for the win. Lewis Whiting and Jack Ferguson were both unlucky as shots were saved and blocked. More chances went begging, but, as the final whistle approached, Walden hit three quick breakaway goals at the very end to give them a flattering scoreline.

Wratting were on top for the first five minutes, but could not add to their tally. With the wind in their faces and now playing uphill, it was always going to be a struggle for the visitors to keep playing their football and, the longer the period went on, the more Newmarket started to take control of the game. Backs-to-the-wall defending saw Joshua Osuchukwu put in a fine display at full-back and keeper Ben Eames pulling off some great stops, but the breakthrough eventually came with 10 minutes remaining. A hopeful shot from the left flank flew into the top corner to once again level the scores. The final 10 minutes proved there is a lot more to West Wratting than fancy passing football as they rolled up their sleeves and battled for every ball in a bid to preserve their unbeaten status, and their grit and determination were rewarded with a creditable draw against a strong Newmarket team.

Robinson sets Hawks soaring

Newmarket Town U15 0 Hondon Hawks U15 7

CAMBRIDGE COLTS LEAGUE KO CUP, THIRD ROUND
THIS was another comprehensive win for Hawks, this time in the KO Cup quarter-final against Newmarket, the runaway leaders of Under-15 Division D. An early Ben Robinson goal, following fine work by James Batteye, gave Hawks a platform to play their short passing football on this excellent pitch at Ashley. Two further goals from in-form Tom Lock, one a particularly fine scissor volley from a Lee Garner cross, effectively ended the contest before half time, enabling manager Tony Wheeler to give some players returning from injury a run out in the second half. One of those, Adam Elsey, scored a fine individual goal just after the break and further strikes from Batteye, Shaun Hunsden and a second for Robinson saw Hawks run out easy winners. Credit for the Newmarket keeper who made half a dozen brilliant saves to keep the score respectable. Grampian Gunners U14 2 Histon Hornets U14 1

CAMBS COLTS LEAGUE, DIVISION 14A
GRAMPIAN overcame a stubborn Histon side a little easier than the score suggests. Leading by 1-0 at the break, courtesy of Jordan Palazon, the lead was doubled 10 minutes from time by Jordan Jackson with a fine strike from the edge of the box. The visitors got their reward deep into injury time. It was a match played competitively but in the right spirit with both teams giving their all but never being over the top.

Spicer's farewell ends in a victory

WOODLANDS manager Matt Spicer was looking forward to his last game for his side, before he goes around the world on a global venture. He was looking forward to a walk in the park for his side, who have won every single game in Division Four of the Treadfirst Sudbury & District Sunday League this season, against a struggling Woolpack Reserves, who are a side on the brink of relegation.

Things started badly for Spicer as Woolpack powered into an early 2-0 lead.

Luckily Woodlands got it on track with a 7-4 victory, including a penalty for the departing manager.

In Division One, Border Athletic stay top after a tight affair with Bayhorse ended 7-5 to the home side.

A 1-0 defeat away to Lavenham leaves Haverhill United Old Boys searching for their first league win since November 11.

Mount Pleasant's incredible season in Division Two continued as they beat Ridgewell 5-1. Pleasant have won all nine of their league games and are set to become the divisional champions.

Their nearest rivals, Black Horse Hammers, could only manage a point in a 3-3 draw against Thurlow.

In Division Three, Grampian Sunday's season of all wins in the league came to an end courtesy of a 4-3 defeat away to Boxford Rovers.

However, Grampian still have four games in hand over leaders Bamadiston Arms, who enhanced their lead at the top of the table with a 4-3 victory away to Cornard Hammers.

In Division Four, Fingleaves retained their position in second place, despite a 3-3 draw with Walsingham White Horse. Fingleaves' goals were netted by Tinashe Dangarembizi, Matt Johnson and Vince Martinez.

Herbert Lions beat Arrendean 3-2 in Division Five. Arrendean's goals were scored by Alan Brittain and Sean Spiers.

In the quarter-finals of the Treadfirst Challenge Cup, Haverhill Bull beat Cole Green 8-1 thanks to goals from Ian Ford (2), Danny Johnston (2), Matt Ford, Ricky Tabram, Craig Cutts and Chris Claydon.

■ THANKS A LOT... Michael Morrison applauds the Cambridge United fans after Saturday's FA Cup tie with Wolves. But is he also bidding them farewell?

Top clubs on trail of Morrison

MICHAEL Morrison's footballing future is still unclear, despite two Coca-Cola League clubs showing interest in signing the Cambridge United defender during the transfer window.

United have yet to receive a formal offer from either outfit, but are believed to be seeking a figure of around £100,000 plus add-ons for the Haverhill-based England C international.

U's chairman Lee Power would not comment on how much United were looking for, but said he expected Morrison, who has rejected the offer of a new deal, to be sold during this month's transfer window.

Morrison was dropped by manager Jimmy Quinn after turning down the offer, but has returned to the side for recent matches.

He was part of the United side that put up a gallant display before losing 2-1 at Coca-Cola Championship side Wolverhampton Wanderers in the third round of the FA Cup on Saturday.

Power said: "We've received a couple of telephone calls from League clubs, but, so far, there has not been any offers."

"One inquiry we received was from a Coca-Cola Championship club, who asked how much to take him in the transfer window, because they seem close to doing something with him in the summer anyway, so we're just chatting to them at the moment. We've also had a tentative inquiry from a League One club, asking how much we want for him now rather than wait until the summer."

United snubbed an offer from League One Southend United for the 20 year old last June, but will now not risk waiting until he is out of contract this summer for the possibility of going to a tribunal for a compensation fee after receiving just £40,000 from Coventry City for his former team-mate Robbie Simpson last summer.

Power said: "The only way I think is going to end happily for both parties is if Michael goes in the window because manager Jimmy Quinn has got to build a team and try to keep it together."

"If we can get the right money for him, it will be a good thing for us."

Heavy defeat adds to Haverhill misery

HAVERHILL'S disappointing season continued as they were beaten 42-0 at home to Thetford in Eastern Counties Two on Saturday.

Vice-skipper Jake Plumridge was again in charge of the team as he continued to deputise for captain Dave Quinney, who is currently sidelined with a knee problem.

Rovers kick their heels

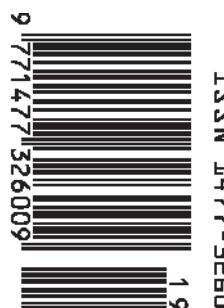

HAVERHILL Rovers' hopes of a return to winning ways were dashed when their scheduled Ridgeons League, Premier Division match with Stanway Rovers was called off on Saturday, due to a waterlogged pitch at Hamlet Croft.

The postponement was a blow to Rovers' manager Steve Taylor, who was looking for a victory, following his team's defeat by Cambridge Regional College the previous Wednesday. "We need to get as many points on the board as possible because we've got a difficult January programme," he said.

Rovers' league programme continues on Saturday when Taylor's men travel to the Suffolk coast to take one Lowestoft, who are currently occupying a mid-table position.
